DE WITT PLEADS GUILTY TO FORGERY INDICTMENTS

Young Man Who Imitates Governor's Name Gets Two Years in Penitentiary.

INSANITY PLEA SET ASIDE

Commission Appointed by Court to Inquire Into His Mental Responsibility Reported That He Was Possessed of Sound Mind.

William H. DeWitt, the young man of prepossessing appearance who induced Governor Stuart recently to endorse a worthless check for $15, and shortly afterwards passed another check for $20, to which the Governor's indorsement had been forged, pleaded guilty to forgery in the Hustings Court yesterday, and was sentenced by Judge Richardson to serve two years in the penitentiary—one year on each of the two indictments.

The case attracted wide notice because of the Governor's connection with it, and because of the young man's family, which is said to be prominent. DeWitt appeared at the office of Governor Stuart, representing himself to be the son of Mayor Loving, of Pulaski. On the strength of this representation he secured the Governor's indorsement to a check for $15, drawn on a bank in Norfolk. The check proved to be worthless.

CASHES WORTHLESS CHECK AT HOTEL RICHMOND

Shortly afterwards DeWitt forged the indorsement of the Governor to a check for $20 and had it cashed at the Hotel Richmond. He was arrested at the Hotel Richmond on the charge of attempting to pass another worthless check there.

Counsel for the young man brought to the attention of the court an apparent insanity streak, which appeared to account for his erratic conduct, and in order to satisfy himself on this point Judge Richardson appointed a commission to inquire into his mental responsibility. The commission, consisting of Dr. William S. Gordon and Dr. S. E. Priddy, reported on July 15, that in his opinion DeWitt was possessed of sound mind.

Mrs. John H. Ingram, widow of Judge Ingram, of 320 West Gray Street, reported to the police yesterday that her home had been entered by means of false keys and the house ransacked. Investigation showed that nothing was missing.

MEANT NO REFLECTION ON SHELTERING ARMS

Mrs. Adcock Wants to Know Who or What Is Responsible for Her Child's Death.

INVESTIGATION IS IN PROGRESS

Board of Managers Making Searching Inquiry Into Mother's Charge of Neglect and Insanitary Treatment—Letter From Mrs. Adcock.

Investigation is being made by the board of managers of the Sheltering Arms Hospital of the circumstances surrounding the death of Beulah Virginia Adcock, a five-year-old child who died several days after being removed from the institution by her mother, Mrs. R. A. Adcock.

In a statement to the police Mrs. Adcock alleged that the child had not been given proper attention; that its wound after a surgical operation had been allowed to become in an insanitary condition, and that the children's ward was not properly kept. After a special inquiry for several days the Police Department informed Mrs. Adcock that there was no evidence of criminality, and, therefore, no action could be taken by that department.

HOSPITAL CARRIES ON LARGE CHARITABLE WORK

The Sheltering Arms is an entirely non-profit hospital, operated by a board of managers, to which any reputable physician may bring purely charitable white cases, the only stipulation being that neither the physician nor the hospital is to receive any pay for their services. The institution has for years carried on a large charity work in the community.

Members of the board of managers have visited Mrs. Adcock and assured her that both for her own sake and for the sake of the future welfare of the institution, thorough investigation would be conducted to ascertain whether there had been any neglect or improper treatment.

The following letter was received by The Times-Dispatch last night from Mrs. Oliver J. Sands, secretary of the board of managers of the hospital:

"The board of directors of the Sheltering Arms Free Hospital respectfully request that you will publish the attached letter, written by Mrs. Adcock after our visit to her to-day. In view of the terrible bereavement which has befallen her, we feel that her kindly attitude towards the hospital and its management is most commendable, and we hope and believe that the public, while extending its sympathy in the fullest measure to the example of kindness and unselfishness to prejudice this distressing incident."

MRS. ADCOCK ASKS TO KNOW WHO IS RESPONSIBLE FOR HER LOSS

Accompanying this was the following letter from Mrs. Adcock, addressed to Mrs. Sands as secretary of the hospital board:

"I appreciate very much the visit I had this morning from you and Mrs. George T. King, representing the board of the Sheltering Arms Hospital, and your expressions of sympathy in my bereavement. I also appreciate the desire of the Sheltering Arms to obtain all the facts from my standpoint, as well as from every other standpoint, regarding the recent death of my little girl, under the distressing circumstances, which, unfortunately, have befallen me."

"I want you to feel that I recognize in the Sheltering Arms a great public charity, made possible by the interest and watchful interest of a number of ladies in the community, who devote a large part of their time to this work, and by the cordial support of the public."

"In my crushing distress and bereavement, I must not have been as careful in the way in which I expressed myself as I would have been under other circumstances, but I want to assure you that I have not intended any statement which might have reflected on the hospital, or to any other person, or to seek to place upon it the blame for the terrible results of the operation on my child, and for the after-treatment. Your sympathy has touched me deeply, and I would be most unwilling to prejudice the case in any way."

"I know that the board, of which you ladies are members, is doing everything in its power to determine all of the facts which bear upon this case, and I urge you that this investigation be as thorough and complete as possible. I will be most grateful to you for any information which you may be able to give me, and I hope it will also afford a protection to the Sheltering Arms and the ladies who devote their sympathy and faithfulness to this work, from any other similar happening in that institution, which has done so much good in the community."

Guilt of Grand Larceny.

Hattie Booker pleaded guilty in the Hustings Court yesterday to the charge of grand larceny, and was sentenced by Judge Richardson to serve one year in the penitentiary. She was charged with stealing from J. S. Ewell two diamond rings and a watch, valued at $122.

Miss West Improving.

Miss Ora West, who was injured recently in an automobile accident, was reported last night at the Retreat for the Sick to be improving. Her condition is regarded as favorable.

CANDIDATES ALMOST OUSTED BY SUFFRAGISTS

Women Take Platforms at Political Meetings in Fulton and Clay Ward.

TWO BIG RALLIES ARE HELD

Folkes Makes Reference to "Representative Form of Government," and Is Understood to Be Opposing Suggested Changes in City Charter.

Two political meetings were held last night, candidates for the Administrative Board and General Assembly in Tuesday's primary addressing the voters both in Clay Ward and Fulton. The House candidates spoke first before the Henry Clay Club, and crossed the city while the Administrative Board candidates were opening the program in Fulton.

Special interest was injected into the meeting of the Henry Clay Club by the introduction of the equal suffrage question, following arguments by several able suffragists. The speeches of the candidates were devoid of anything bordering on the sensational, all of them either referring to their past in office or simply contenting themselves with stating their platform, using the same arguments as they had before in the campaign. The crowd derived some amusement, however, in springing the question of "How about the candidates for women, on each of the candidates for the Senate, who followed the suffrage speakers. They all replied in the negative, which seemed to strike a popular chord.

SUFFRAGE ADVOCATES MAKE STIRRING SPEECHES

The suffragists had their innings before the voters for the arrival of candidates from the Fulton ward, and held the attention of their audience with their ready arguments for the cause and quick replies to all questions. Stirring speeches were made by Miss Nora Houston and Miss Mae Schachl.

Though last on the list, more enthusiasm was manifested in the speeches of the Administrative Board candidates than any others. It was especially a Gust meeting from the time Mrs. Gust ascended the platform until he left. Henry P. Beck, the first speaker, and E. C. Folkes, who followed, also received a hearty welcome, the former especially. Both asked the voters to return them to office on their records.

The candidates met in Fulton, under the auspices of the Civic Improvement League, and made a final appeal to the voters of Jefferson Ward. The meeting, presided over by John H. Martin, closed with a song. The League, was held in the assembly hall of the Junior Order of American Mechanics. Probably 200 voters, augmented by a dozen or more women representing the Equal Suffrage League of Virginia, packed the hall, and despite the intense heat, all most stinging in the crowd, the speakers listened with apparent interest to the two hours of oratory and accorded each speaker liberal and impartial applause.

When Mrs. P. I. I. had made her speech, Virginia, stepped to the platform to present the claims of the woman suffrage to the voters of that section of the city. The presiding candidates for the various city offices, who with all the enthusiasm peculiar to the sect, had been addressing the audience for an hour or so, shrunk into insignificance.

FOLKES OPPOSES CHARTER CHANGE PROGRAM

The speeches of the sixteen candidates were without feature. The chief approach to the sensational came when E. C. Folkes, candidate for Mayor, said that the change of the charter, which he had proposed, was a "representative form of government." This was obviously in reference to the city of Richmond, which with all the enthusiasm peculiar to the sect, had been addressing the audience for an hour or so, shrunk into insignificance.

There was a marked undercurrent of good feeling existing between the candidates. Each referred to the other in terms of the highest praise, and each sought to secure a record in soliciting the support of the voters.

A complete list of the speakers is as follows:

James E. Cannon, incumbent; C. W. Hardwick, Morgan R. Mills, and Louis O. Wendenberg, candidates for State Senate; Henry P. Beck, incumbent; E. C. Folkes, incumbent; and Max Gust, candidates for the Administrative Board; A. O. Boschen, R. T. Gordon, W. C. Gray, R. E. Fuller, incumbent; Graham B. Wolcott, incumbent; J. P. Jones, J. B. Lightfoot, Jr., W. M. Myers, incumbent, and James H. Price, candidates for the House of Delegates.

Cannot Mail Cigars to France.

Postmaster Hay T. Thornton received an order yesterday from the Postoffice Department at Washington, directing the postmasters of the United States to refuse acceptance of parcels of tobacco, cigars and cigarettes addressed to soldiers or prisoners of war in France, for the reason that the French service is unable to effect the delivery of these parcels because of the impossibility to collect from addressees the French customs charges to which all such parcels are now liable.

Leave of Absence.

Upon his own application, a leave of absence from August 2 to October 1 has been granted Captain Charles H. Kindervater, of Roanoke, quartermaster.

HOPEWELL SITUATION IS SERIOUS PROBLEM

State May Assume Policing of Mushroom City for Year or More.

FEW QUALIFIED VOTERS THERE

Two-Year Requirement of Constitution Puts Barrier in Way of Formation of City Government Under General Provisions of Constitution.

When the State authorities take charge of the situation at Hopewell, Prince George County, a course which now appears inevitable, the good name of Virginia for suppressing lawlessness is to be maintained. Governor Stuart will be confronted with the prospect of policing the mushroom city for a year or more. There is little or no likelihood that one raid, even of the most elaborate proportions, will be of permanent benefit, for the local authorities, having no police force, will find it difficult to cope with conditions, and will hardly be in a position to keep the town "clean."

It is not only the gambling, the liquor-selling and flagrant flouting of the morality of every citizen, which makes the situation at Hopewell precarious, but the mob of hoodlums who are said to have sought to intimidate the thousands of law-abiding citizens, once they are aroused by even the most trivial event. Having been allowed to have their own way, this element, together with the gunmen and other underlings from the underworld of the larger cities of the country, are capable of producing a climax which would shake the entire State.

MIGHT CAUSE CALL FOR ENTIRE STATE MILITIA

Under present conditions there would be no way to handle the situation without calling out the entire State militia. However, if the undesirable are driven out, and those who are at Hopewell for the purpose of engaging in legitimate occupation left to themselves, it is not probable that a serious danger would be eliminated.

Once the screen is drawn from Hopewell by the official action of the State authorities in taking charge of the situation, there will be many sensational developments. Stories of bribery, graft and almost every other offense against the criminal or moral code are pouring in upon Governor Stuart and Attorney-General John Garland Pollard, but they are being met with a discreet silence as to details. Investigation of charges involving the professional conduct of lawyers, who have had cases at Hopewell, have also been made, and it is probable that some of the people who want "something done."

From the attitude of the State officials it appears that there will be no tip given any one at Hopewell when the arm of the law, as interpreted by Governor Stuart, swoops down on the city. One said that the effect of putting the fear of the law into the hearts of the various lawless elements there, and make the situation somewhat easier to handle in the future.

It is known that the Governor has been consulted about the advisability of calling an extraordinary session of the General Assembly to grant a municipal charter to Hopewell. Such a plan is regarded as feasible under any circumstances. There are not a sufficient number of people in the proposed corporate limits who have been in Prince George County long enough to qualify as voters for a charter to be issued. In addition, the government of the town would be placed in the hands of a few men, even if a sufficient number of electors should be able to qualify, and the situation there would be more likely to remain as it is now, with the State having less ground to interfere.

There is some question as to whether or not Hopewell will so shake themselves that the General Assembly, when it convenes next January, will see fit to grant a charter to the town. The legislators will probably be governed by the recommendations of Governor Stuart in their course.

Advocates of the creation of a State constabulary similar to that which exists in Pennsylvania and other States, say that if the situation at Hopewell is such as to require a charter to be issued, the necessity for such a force in Virginia. The State police, under orders from the Governor, would be trained to cope with such conditions, and would be available for duty anywhere in the State at any time.

125 NEAR-BEER SALOONS HAVE FEDERAL LIQUOR LICENSES

In view of the widespread reports of the lawless conditions existing at Hopewell, the mushroom city of Prince George, R. C. L. Moncre, collector of internal revenue for the Eastern District of Virginia, said yesterday that he thought it well to state that the department has collected taxes on 125 licenses granted to operators of near-beer saloons in that town, and that, so far as he knows, none of these saloons is operating in violation of the law. The department, said the collector, is doing everything within its power to see that the law is carried out to the letter, and with this end in view, he himself has a deputy stationed there, and Thomas H. Vanderford, revenue agent for Virginia, has another. One place, Mr. Moncre said, was closed down on the refusal of the owner to pay the special tax required of him, and one man has been arrested and sent on to the Federal grand jury for resisting and impeding an internal revenue officer in the discharge of his duty.

FINANCE COMMITTEE FOR REDUCED PRICE OF GAS

Unanimously Recommends Powers-Melton Resolution Scaling Rate to 80 Cents.

MEASURE SURE OF PASSAGE

Support of Committee Makes Certain Prompt Concurrence by Both Branches—Resolution Is Approved for Opening Taylor Street.

By a unanimous vote the Council Committee on Finance last night recommended to the Council for passage the resolution introduced jointly by Aldermen Powers and Melton, reducing the price of gas from 90 cents to 80 cents a thousand cubic feet.

The resolution was introduced in the Council several months ago and was promptly recommended by the Committee on Public Buildings, Properties and Utilities. When it reached the Board of Aldermen, however, it was referred to the Finance Committee, where it has lain for more than two months without action.

CONTRIBUTED TO REJECTION OF LEASING PROPOSITION

More than any other one factor, the resolution contributed to the summary rejection of the leasing offer of the Southern Gas and Electric Corporation, of Baltimore, which promised, in the event its offer were accepted, to reduce the price of gas to 80 cents and contribute to the city the profits of the gas works at an annual rate of $100,000. The introduction of the Powers-Melton resolution, with its promise of 80-cent gas from the municipal plant, detracted from the strength of the leasing proposition, and the offer was later flatly rejected.

Alderman Powers addressed the committee briefly last night on the merits of the pending resolution. He drew attention to the basic principle that a public utility should be operated solely for the benefit of the people and not for the purpose of piling up profits, pointing to the increasing net annual profits of the gas works as sufficient reason for reducing the price of the product and giving the consumers the benefit of the cheapened production.

SAYS CITY MAY SAFELY REDUCE PRICE OF GAS

Superintendent Knowles, of the Gas Works, told the committee that advantageous contracts for coal and oil will enable the Gas Department to save $40,000 on these two items alone during 1916, and that this saving will more than take care of the shrinkage in gross receipts that will follow the reduction in price to 80 cents. He was fully of the belief that the city may now safely reduce the price of gas to 80 cents, and that the Gas Works will continue to return a handsome net profit at the reduced price.

According to figures laid before the committee by Chief Inspector Shelton, the net profits of the Gas Works for the year 1914, were $128,167. With this year's reduction in the cost of fuel, according to the same statement, the net profits for 1915, had the 80-cent price gone into effect the first of the year, would be approximately $128,000. Had gas been sold by the city at 80 cents during 1915, 1916 and 1917, 31¢, Knowles told the committee, the Gas Works would have returned a net profit for that three-year period of $128,874.71.

ASSURED OF PASSAGE BY BOTH BRANCHES

With these statements before it, the committee voted after a short discussion to recommend the resolution to the Council for passage. The Finance Committee's support of the measure insures its passage by both branches of the Council.

The committee recommended a resolution on appropriating $10,000 for the purchase of property needed for the opening of Taylor Street, between South Lombardy and Temple Streets. The matter has been pending for more than two years, having been held up by defective titles.

An amended resolution was recommended appropriating $10,000 for the purchase of property needed for the opening of Taylor Street. This measure will be substituted for the resolution on the table in the Board of Aldermen, which appropriates $25,000 for the same purpose.

WEST POINT CITIZENS PLEDGE THEIR SUPPORT

Mass-Meeting Is Held in Interest of Projected Railroad That Will Penetrate Middlesex.

ROAD SECURES ITS CHARTER

Warner Moore Named as President of Line From West Point to Urbanna—Plan Business Survey of Rappahannock Valley.

Coincident with the issuance here yesterday of a charter for the Richmond, Rappahannock and Northern Railway Company, citizens of West Point met and pledged hearty support to the scheme by rail. Resolutions were adopted calling upon the Town Council to grant a right of way to the proposed railroad, and to issue bonds to grade it.

Good progress towards the new line was made yesterday. Probably the most important was the grant of a charter by the State Corporation Commission. In addition to the main line between West Point and Urbanna, the company is given the right to construct branches or feeders into other counties other than the ones directly tapped. The authorized capital is $500,000, of which $200,000 will be preferred. Warner Moore was named as president, with Herbert L. Lewis, of West Point, vice-president; R. H. Bruce, treasurer; James Mullen, secretary; Oliver J. Sands, C. H. Ruffin, H. F. Sprague and L. Hawse, directors.

MASS-MEETING HELD IN WEST POINT

A mass-meeting had been called in West Point before the charter was secured. It was largely attended, and was an enthusiastic meeting, many women being present. Prominent business men made addresses, among them being Vice-President Lewis, of the new company; R. C. Carden, Southern Railway agent at Richmond; Ned Brand, president of the Citizens Bank; J. L. Brand, president of the Town of West Point; George W. Richardson and Crosby Thompson, president of the old Dominion Industrial Corporation; Nathan Hess, president of the Chamber of Commerce; Dr. R. V. Bagby, W. C. Davis, Dr. George W. Richardson and P. B. Bostie, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. During the course of the meeting, Colonel James O'Connor, one of the most public-spirited citizens of West Point, offered $500 toward improving the right of way of the road within the town boundaries. It was thought advisable, however, to have this money come out of the town treasury.

Preliminary surveys of the proposed route have already been made, and Charles L. Ruffin, engineer in charge, is now engaged in checking up a survey made by Colonel C. P. E. Burgwyn, of this city, in 1908. It is proposed to connect with the Southern Railway at West Point, but if that company does not give satisfactory treatment, a change will be made, and the line will connect with the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad at Tomsboro.

PLAN BUSINESS SURVEY OF ROAD'S TERRITORY

Oliver J. Sands and several other local financiers and business men are planning a business survey of the territory to be tapped by the proposed line. This trip will probably be taken next week. The plan is to motor to Fredericksburg, and from that city to Irvington, crossing the Rappahannock River by ferry to Urbanna, and return to Richmond by way of West Point. The party would touch Richmond, Northumberland and Lancaster Counties, on the Northern Neck, in addition to those contiguous to the Rappahannock on the west.

It is expected that a delegation representing the Chamber of Commerce, Business Men's Club and the Retail Merchants' Association will accompany the party.

A MEETING OF THE COMMITTEE APPOINTED AT A RECENT MEETING IN URBANNA TO COOPERATE WITH THE LOCAL CAPITALISTS WILL BE HELD NEXT WEEK, AT WHICH TIME THE QUESTION OF FINANCING THE COMPANY WILL BE DISCUSSED. THE PROMOTERS EXPECT THE CITIZENS IN THE COUNTIES BENEFITTING BY THE NEW LINE TO SUBSCRIBE AT LEAST $100,000 OF THE STOCK.
